

Hi «GreetingLine»

In a political climate where "The Former Guy" still dominates headlines and media cycles, we're excited to bring you the most refreshing and timely satirical film of the season. As the world is obsessed with everything political, we're coming to you with the freshest opportunity you'll have in October...a chance for early editorial coverage on the Political Satire You've Been Waiting For: "Prisoner Trump: The Don of Cell Block B" (Entertaining Pictures). Prisoner Trump offers a hilarious and much-needed escape for that daily refuge we all need. Available now in an exclusive preview at prisonertrump.com before wider release across all streaming platforms ahead of Election Day 2024, this indie gem combines biting political commentary with outrageous prison hijinks—finally delivering the consequences people have been waiting for. We want you to be the first for a sneak peek in our goal of setting up an interview for you for editorial coverage with filmmaker Joe Barber and/or star Jim Storm or a review!

As 24/7 political ads bombard us, Prisoner Trump promises to be the satire of the year, providing fans of political comedy with a spectacle where Donald Trump gets his long-awaited comeuppance. "The world has been aching to see Donald Trump behind bars. Here's their chance," says director Joe Barber, making his narrative feature directorial debut with this irreverent, politically charged comedy. Co-produced by action and horror veteran Jarrett Furst, Prisoner Trump is a sharp, scathing, and wildly entertaining take on Trump's rise to power inside prison walls.

In a satirical twist of fate, Donald Trump (portrayed by veteran actor Jim Storm) and Rudy Giuliani (Patrick M.J. Finerty) find themselves locked up in Julio Deep State Penitentiary. What follows is a high-stakes battle of egos as Trump attempts to seize control of the prison economy with his infamous business tactics—complete with "Trump Bucks" and "Ivana Cakes." As Trump's larger-than-life persona clashes with inmate leader Tyler London, the film delivers a hilarious and exaggerated commentary on corruption, power, and wealth-driven politics.

Jim Storm (The Bold and the Beautiful, Capitol, One Life to Live) embodies Trump with a perfect blend of bravado and humor, while Patrick M.J. Finerty (Sneaky Pete, Grown-ish) brings an unforgettable turn as Giuliani. Shot entirely in Los Angeles, this film uniquely blends satire with timely social commentary, offering a fresh take on both Trump and the political systems that surround him.

Director Joe Barber, who purchased the domain prisonertrump.com in 2017, says, "I had to make this film. People have been fantasizing about seeing Donald Trump face real consequences, and this film delivers that in the most entertaining way possible." With its sharp satire, dark humor, and a prison setting like you've never seen, Prisoner Trump is set to be the political comedy that everyone will be talking about.

We would love to arrange an interview for you with filmmaker Joe Barber, star Jim Storm, or other key cast members involved in Prisoner Trump: The Don of Cell Block B. Screeners, high-res images, and additional background materials are available upon request.
